

TEN DEAD.

Fatal Flames in a Tennessean House in Brooklyn.

Only a Four Story Building But the Flames Cut Off All Escape.

The Victims Were Smothered by the Smoke and Then Burned in Their Beds—One of the Tenants of the House Under Police Surveillance—The Loss Total.

BROOKLYN, April 2.—The four-story brick tenement house, No. 98 Union street, was burned at 3:30 Wednesday morning and ten persons lost their lives. There were 17 persons in the house at the time of the fire, seven of whom escaped. The following are the names of the dead: Nicolo Traglia, 50 years of age; Lina Traglia, 44 years; Domingo Traglia, 44 years; Agostino Traglia, 17 years; Camelia Ciano, 35 years; Augustino Buone, 4 years; Maria Buone, 3 years; Fanny Buone, 3 years; Johanna Buone, 3 months.

The ground floor was occupied as a fruit store by Joseph Buone, who with his family, lived on the second floor. The third floor was occupied by the Traglia family, and the fourth floor by the Buone's. John Calabro, who married Lina Buone less than a year ago, also lived with the Buone's. The cause was discovered by a man named Holst, who gave the alarm and tried to rouse the tenants. He knocked in the street door, but the flames burst out into his face and he had to abandon further efforts. The hallways and stairs were not a seething mass of flames, so rapidly did the fire spread from a place immediately behind the street door, where it undoubtedly originated. Holst then saw there was danger and fled to the adjoining houses, and with the aid of the police got everybody out in the street. In the meantime the occupants of the burning building had been awakened and by means of the fire escape and the store windows crossed to the building, No. 38 Union street, and thence to the street. The Traglias and woman who lived with them on the third floor, apparently did not awaken and were burned to death without making any sign to the waters in the street. John Calabro, who married the oldest daughter and the only one of the Buone family alive to tell the tale, said that he tried to carry his wife to the window, but could not and hurt his hands in getting out. He had called for help, but none came. The explosion was caused by the calls of "fire" and said Wednesday morning that in five minutes after they could not have gotten out of the building. The firemen drenched the fire out in a short time and without damage to the adjoining buildings. The bodies were removed by a undertaker at 10 o'clock. They were badly burned, but not beyond recognition. The loss is about $4,000 to the building and its contents.

Later in the day fire Chief Dale said that John Calabro, whose wife lost her life in the fire, was fully dressed when seen on the street, and no other occupant had time to dress. He told two different stories of his escape from the house which are contradictory in many particulars, and he is under police surveillance until further investigation is made.

TO ATOMS.

Two Killed Instantly and Others Mangled in a Boiler Explosion Near Cincinnati. April 2.—A terrible boiler explosion occurred about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning near Cincinnati. Our miles east of Milford. Two men were killed outright, in fact, blown to atoms, while several others were seriously injured. A terrible explosion on the farm of Fred Groves exploded. Ernest Martin, the fireman, aged 41, and William R. R. Fire, water, aged 45, were blown to atoms. Portions of their bodies were found 1,500 feet from the scene, while trees and shrubbery surrounding the scene were bespattered with their blood and pieces of their flesh clung to the bushes all over the field where they a second before had been working. The sawmill belonged to Groves and the men were in his employ. Groves himself was seriously injured by the smoke stack falling upon him. Hiram Fitzwater, a brother to one of the dead men, was struck on the left leg by a piece of the exploded boiler and incapacitation may be necessary. Quilla Fitzwater, another brother, was struck in the back by flying timber and was badly injured. The noise of the explosion was heard miles away. The dead men and the wounded are well known over the country and their terrible death has created the greatest excitement. Coroner W. R. Applegate, of Louisville, was notified and will report to the scene of disaster.

DESPERATE FIGHT.

Between Train Robbers and Police at Bremen, Ind.—The Gang Captured. BREMEN, Ind., April 2.—Five desperate men attempted to hold up the west-bound limited express on the I. & O. road at Bremen at 4:30 Wednesday morning. The gang of robbers boarded the train and made a dash for the side of the city a few miles robbed Theodore Hultstein, of Chicago, a passenger, of his gold watch and chain and then threw him from the moving train. It was the gang's intention to hold up the train and then make a dash for the city. Bremen as a large town of firemen affords them a good opportunity. Mr. Hultstein, who was thrown from the train, was severely injured. The train arrived at a station and the police were notified. A posse of men were sent searching the country for two robbers who escaped. It is in an affair similar to the Kessler hold-up.

TWO BOILERS

In the Planters' Oil Mill, Greenville, Miss., Explode.

Five Men Lose Their Lives and Six Are Badly Injured.

The Cause Held to Be a Dry Boiler—After the Week of the Plant Fire broke Out in the Mills and Several Bodies Were Charred.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 2.—At two o'clock Wednesday afternoon the two massive boilers of the Planters oil mill, at the explosion wrecked the mill property and causing the death of five men, as follows: Henry Williams, colored, fireman; Oliver Humphrey, colored, assistant fireman; John Freeman, colored, laborer; Horace Wilkinson, colored, carpenter; Ed Starnes, colored, laborer. The following were injured, as stated: Frank Wolfenden, chief engineer, badly scalded and bruised; Columbus Washington, colored, burned and cut by timber, will die; Tom Brown, colored, badly bruised and burned; W. E. H. Freeman, colored, injured; Alex Hughes, scalp wound from flying timber; Freeman Pendleton, colored, leg broken and otherwise badly hurt.

The explosion occurred while Manager Alexander was at dinner, and the cause is stated to be a dry boiler. The version of it is not, however, definite. All connected with the boiler and engine room were killed except the chief engineer, and he is badly injured. In making any statement. After the week of the plant by explosion, froze the ruins, but this was suppressed by the fire department, not, however, until the bodies of the killed had been badly charred. The loss in dollars and cents is about $50,000, on which there is adequate insurance in the Hartford Steam Boiler Insurance Co.

About a year ago the plant of the oil mill was wrecked with frightful results, was entirely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of something like $150,000, and had been rebuilt on such a scale as to make it one of the most extensive and complete in the south. The scene attending Wednesday's disaster beggars description, and in addition to the vast throng of curious people, there were scores of men, women and children surveying about the ruins of the mill, and making inquiries as to have been employed there, most of the latter being Negroes. Their grief was intensely demonstrated in a more violent manner than would have been shown by white people, which added to the melancholy of the situation accordingly.
